

Special Issue on Sustainable Development

Call for Papers

Sustainable development is defined as a type of development that meets the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs and is based on three pillars: economic, social and environmental (i.e., and economic growth, social progress, environmental balance). The United Nations, recognizing the importance of Sustainable Development, in 2015 declared 17 major goals to be achieved by 2030 (all included in the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development). These include No Poverty, Zero Hunger, good Health and Well-being, Quality Education, Gender Equality, Clean Water and Sanitation, Affordable and Clean Energy, Decent Work and Economic Growth, Industry, Innovation and Infrastructure, Reduced Inequalities, Sustainable Cities and Communities, Responsible Consumption and Production, Climate Action, Life below Water, Life on Land, Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions, Partnership for the Goals.

Along these lines, we intend to invite front-line researchers and authors to submit original research and review articles on exploring the theme of Sustainable Development. Potential topics include, but are not limited to:

- Economic Evaluation of Investments in Education, Training, Lifelong Learning, Research, New Technologies, and Innovation.
- Circular Economy - Sustainable Development - Regional Planning
- Social Mobility, Economic Inequality, Gender Inequality and Education
- Human Capital as a Substitute for Social Capital
- Climate Change, Sustainable Development and Environmental Education
- Institutions and Sustainable Economic Growth-Development.
- Information and Communication Technologies in Health Sciences and Systems

Authors should read over the journal's For Authors carefully before submission. Prospective authors should submit an electronic copy of their complete manuscript through the journal's Paper Submission System.

Please kindly notice that the "Special Issue" under your manuscript title is supposed to be specified and the research field "Special Issue - Sustainable Development" should be chosen during your submission.
